
Candidate Research Problem Statement #1

Cognitive Maps for Describing the Rust Programming Language

I am studying cognitive maps for describing the Rust programming language because I want to find out how best to harness the expressive potential of cognitive maps for representing knowledge and skills associated with the Rust programming language in order to help my reader understand how to craft a program of learning that will result in a powerful command of the Rust programming language.